DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 is rejected as being incomplete because it depends from a canceled claim.

Therefore, it has not been further analyzed on the merit.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 3,5-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Arden (U.S. 3,262,205).

Regarding claim 1, Arden shows in figures 3-5, a handle assembly for a detachable scalpel blade (B) includes a handle body (H'), wherein a blade bar (1') has a portion protruding from the handle body for engaging the blade and urging the blade (B) into engagement with the handle body, and where a spring 13 is able for urging the bar (see col. 4, lines 30-34).

Regarding claims 3,5,7, wherein the blade receives in a groove or a slit (groove or a slit occurs between element 16, 17), wherein the bar (1') is able to bent and the groove is parallel to the longitudinal axis.

Regarding claims 6,8-11, wherein the collet (10) has a bore (12) and where the collet has at least one sloping face for guiding the blade into the slit; and wherein the bore as an oval shape so that the bar (1') can move laterally within the bore along orthogonal axis to the longitudinal axis.

Regarding claims 12-14, wherein the bar is coupled to an actuator (19) for urging the portion of the bar out of the handle assembly; wherein the actuator (19) is a button attached to a rod (H2).

Regarding claims 15-20, Arden discloses in figures 3-5, a handle assembly for a detachable scalpel having the limitations as described above.

Claims 21-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Friedman (U.S. 1,940,855).

Regarding claims 21 and 22, Friedman discloses in figures 2-5, a handle assembly for a detachable scalpel blade (1) includes a handle body (3); a blade bar (6); and wherein a spring (5) uses for urging the blade bar into the handle body (3). Furthermore, the tang is defined by a groove (2) and a heel (fig. 4).

Art Unit: 3734

Regarding claims 23, 28 and 29, Friedman discloses in figures 2-5, a handle assembly for a detachable scalpel blade (1) includes a handle body (3); a blade bar (6); and wherein a spring (5) uses for urging the blade bar into the handle body (3); a collet (4 is considered a collet). Furthermore, the tang is defined by a groove (2) and a heel (fig. 4).

Regarding claims 24 and 25, wherein the collet (4) further includes a bore within which the blade bar (3) is positioned. The collet further includes a slot (fig. 5).

Regarding claims 26 and 27, wherein the collet includes at least one face sloping toward the slot; and wherein at least one sloping face guides the blade (1) end into the slot.

Regarding claims 30 and 31, wherein the blade (1) is received in a groove in the protruding portion of the bar (6); and wherein the bar (6) is bent and the groove is approximately parallel to the longitudinal axis (fig. 5).

Regarding claims 32 and 33, wherein the collet (4) has a slit (2) within which an end of the blade (1) is received; and wherein the collet has at least one sloping face for guiding the blade (1) into the slit.

Regarding claims 34 and 35, wherein the collet has a pair of faces sloping toward the slit for guiding the blade (1) end into the slit; and wherein the bore (3) is sized to permit the bar to move laterally from the axis orthogonal to the longitudinal axis.

Regarding claims 36 and 37, wherein the bore (3) has an oval cross sectional shape so the bar can move laterally within the bore; and wherein the bar (5) is coupled to an actuator (9).

Regarding claims 38 and 39, wherein the actuator (9) is a button attached to a rod (8) which attaches to the bar (fig. 4); and wherein the rod (8) has two ends and the bar (5) attaches to one end and the button (9) attaches to the other end.

Art Unit: 3734

Regarding claims 40 and 41, wherein the handle body further includes a handle grip (fig. 1); a collet (4) having a proximal end and a collet core (fig. 4); wherein the collet flares at its proximal end.

Regarding claims 42 and 43, wherein the assembly further includes a retainer (5) for capturing the rod (8) within the handle body (3); and wherein the retainer (5) is attached to the handle body (3).

Claims 1, 3,5-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (e) as being anticipated by Jessen (U.S.6,402,770).

Regarding claim 1, Jessen shows in figure 1, a handle assembly for a detachable scalpel blade (24) includes a handle body (33), wherein a blade bar (12) has a portion protruding from the handle body for engaging the blade and urging the blade into engagement with the handle body, and where a spring 14 is able for urging the bar (see col. 4, lines 30-34).

Regarding claims 3,5-20, Arden discloses in figures 1,3a,5b, a handle assembly for a detachable scalpel having the limitations as described above.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 9/10/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Furthermore, a rejection of claims 21-43 is made in view of Friedman can still be sustained. Applicant is asked to please refer to the modified prior art rejection above wherein the examiner addresses applicant's concerns regarding prior art rejections.
